

telc GmbH is the developer and distributor of fifty standardised language tests, which are currently available in 10 different languages. Our certificates have been developed in accordance with the standards set up by the Council of Europe and are therefore recognized in twenty European countries. A telc certificate can be a determining factor for secondary school qualifications, university entrance, occupational careers and naturalization.

We are currently looking to expand our team of writers:

Freelance writers for marketing texts and Translators (German to English) (m/f)

Your job:

Your responsibilities will include writing or translating articles, website content, flyers, brochures and other publications. As a writer, you will be working either according to the specific guidelines or based on your own research. You will be working closely with the marketing team and if necessary with publishing professionals.

Your profile:

You possess relevant work experience in writing in the field of educational marketing. You are flexible and able to cope with short notice assignments. You are creative and have a good knowledge of ESL related topics. You have an affinity for the internet and are well-connected in online networks related to ESL and teaching and learning languages. You are either a native English speaker or have a C2 level command of English. You can also communicate fluently in German (B2).

Our offer:

We offer a long-term freelance cooperation with interesting and diverse assignments and the possibility of incorporating your own creativity and ideas. You can also benefit from our extensive training programme.

Please send us a comprehensive application including your fee and availability:

telc GmbH

Reference: Freelance Marketing Text Writer

Frau Monika Thoma

Bleichstraße 1

60313 Frankfurt