Who we are

telc stands for The European Language Certificates. We offer language tests based on international standards: fair, transparent and reliable. Consistent with our global focus, we currently offer more than 100 different examinations in 10 languages.

Our proof of excellence:

- The Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR) is the underlying principle for the telc programme of examinations and our yardstick for quality-orientated testing. All telc examinations are aligned to this external reference system.
- telc – language tests is a member of the quality associations European Association for Quality Language Services (Eaquals) and the Association of Language Testers in Europe (ALTE) and as such, is committed to upholding their quality profiles.
- The telc English B2-C1 University examination is among other telc examinations regulated by Ofqual.

Our international recognition

telc certificates are highly recognised by companies, government authorities, schools and universities. Here are just some examples of cooperation with the telc certificates:

- telc certificates are recognised throughout Germany for academic, vocational and immigration purposes.
- The certificate telc Deutsch C1 Hochschule (University) is officially recognised and accepted by the members of the German Rectors' and Cultural Ministers' Conference as proof of language skills for admission to German universities.
- Universities in Spain recognise telc certificates as proof of foreign language skills.
- The Turkish Higher Education Council accepts telc German certificates on the CEFR-levels B2 and C1, making the use of the examinations possible in all Turkish universities.
- In Hungary, telc English certificates are accredited by the state and entitle the holder to study at universities. The quality is constantly monitored by a government agency (NYAK).
- Many universities in Austria and Switzerland accept telc certificates.

telc English B2-C1 University

The telc English B2-C1 University examination is a standardised dual-level examination intended for young adults. It tests the English language knowledge needed for success at an advanced academic level, using a task-based, communicative approach.

Speakers of English at C1 level – and to a lesser degree at B2 – are in a position to study through the medium of English because they can understand linguistically demanding input they have heard or read, speak fluently on complex subjects and write clear, well-structured texts of an academic nature.

Ofqual recognition demonstrates that telc examinations are conducted according to the highest scientific standards and serve as valid and reliable instruments for assessing the linguistic qualifications of our test takers.
